Department of English

International Girl Child Day

The Department of English organized an IQAC initiated commemoration of INTERNATIONAL GIRL CHILD DAY On January 24, 2019, was a collaborative effort between the Department of English and students from diverse academic backgrounds, including BA, BSc, and B.Com. Their shared objective was to promote awareness and empowerment for girls. To achieve this, students undertook impactful activities such as creating visually striking banners and crafting compelling slogans. These banners became powerful symbols of their commitment to gender equality and girls' empowerment.

The centerpiece of the event was a spirited rally that saw active participation from 180 students. This diverse group emphasized that the responsibility of empowering girls transcends academic disciplines, uniting the entire college community in support of this crucial cause. As the rally wove through the college's surroundings, the banners and slogans resonated, carrying the message that empowering girls is a collective responsibility.

In the long term, this event serves as a testament to the importance of raising awareness about the vital role girls play in society. By involving students from different fields, it laid the foundation for a broader movement toward gender equality, reshaping societal norms and fostering an environment where every girl can thrive. This initiative exemplifies the power of language and communication, aligning seamlessly with your role as an English language and literature professor in advocating for social change through effective communication
